

Seven Reasons to Join APPA

APPA is the leading association of educational facilities professionals, with more than 1,300 higher education institutions throughout the United States, Canada, and abroad.

#1

Training and Professional Development

Take advantage of APPA's peer networking and professional development offerings, designed to support the needs of educational professionals at every stage of their careers. Our programs include the widely-popular Institute for Facilities Management; Supervisors Toolkit; Drive In Facilities Workshops; the APPA Leadership Academy; the APPA Annual Conference and Exhibition; and the APPA Senior Facilities Officer Summit.

#2

The APPA Website: www.appa.org

Exclusive, critical information is at your fingertips. How are college campuses successfully implementing sustainability and reduced carbon footprint programs? What are the most critical facilities issues facing our educational institutions? How can I reach other facilities professionals with similar challenges to mine? APPA's online resource for members has it all.

#3

Certification Programs

APPA's Educational Facilities Professional (EFP) and Certified Educational Facilities Professional (CEFP) credentialing programs allow you to demonstrate to peers and your institution's administrators the professional expertise and acumen required of a management leader in educational facilities. Elevate your professional standing and recognition by earning either the EFP or CEFP designation.

#4

APPA Publications

Take advantage of the resources available to members through the APPA bookstore, and elevate your knowledge of facilities management. Gain from the most current, innovative, and relevant information available, including industry standards, best practices, creative solutions, and practical tools. Significant discounts are provided to APPA members, and some publications are free to members.

#5

Facilities Manager Magazine

Enjoy Facilities Manager Magazine six times a year, a complimentary service enjoyed by every APPA member. Every issue offers you the latest thinking and professional advice of today's leading educational facilities professionals. You'll enjoy articles on the profession's most current issues, to include Total Cost of Ownership; sustainable construction and maintenance of campus properties; LEED initiatives among higher-ed and K-12 campuses; management of maintenance and personnel costs; and much, much more.

#6

The APPA Facilities Performance Indicators (FPI) Program

Free only to members, APPA's annual Facilities Performance Indicators Survey (FPI Survey) provides your institution with a comprehensive collection of facilities-related operational costs and personnel information, strategic financial measures, and much more. Compare your institution's facilities performance with peer institutions, state-wide systems, and other cohort groups.

#7

Job Express

Whether you are looking for a qualified candidate, or exploring new opportunities for your own professional growth, Job Express will help you find what you need.

Join APPA today.

Contact APPA Membership Manager Santianna Stewart (Santianna@appa.org) or John Bernhards, Associate Vice President (john@appa.org) to learn more and take advantage of APPA membership.