The Mind-set to Bring

As you consider which of the two pairs of each dichotomy represent you:

*Think of what you prefer when you do not have outside pressures to behave in a particular way.

*Who YOU ARE, outside of the roles you play at work or in your personal life; or as a child, how you responded.

The MBTI® Instrument

was developed by Katharine C. Briggs and her daughter
Isabel Briggs Myers

based on the work of Swiss psychologist C. G. Jung, who presented his psychological type theory in his book Psychological Types (published 1921, translated into English 1923).

Jung's Theory

Jung believed that preferences are innate—“inborn predispositions.”

He also recognized that our innate preferences interact with and are shaped by environmental influences:

- Family
- Country
- Education
- and many others

MBTI

Presenting Type in Organizations

13

13

Inborn Predispositions or Preferences

What are PREFERENCES?

To illustrate this—let's do an activity.

- Write your signature on a clean sheet of paper.
- Now write your signature again in the box below—using the other hand!
- Call out some words that describe the writing of the first signature.
- Now, some words to describe the second signature.

MBTI

Presenting Type in Organizations

14

14

Handedness Exercise

- Where do we get our preference for using one hand over the other?
- How does the environment influence our preference for using one hand over the other?

Note: We all can and do use both—for writing, one is natural, comfortable, automatic.

MBTI

Presenting Type in Organizations

15

15

Jung's Theory

- We will look at four pairs of opposites—like our right and left hands. We all use both sides of each pair, but one is our natural preference.
- Jung believed that our preferences do not change—they stay the same over our lifetime.
- What changes is how we use our preferences and often the accuracy with which we can measure the preferences.
- The confounding variable—environment!

We Have a Preference

We all use Judging and Perceiving as part of our lifestyle.

But we usually do not use them with equal comfort.

Most of us have a preference for one over the other.

One-on-One Action Planning

- Discuss your selected preference – J or P?
 - Why this preference?
 - What helped you identify with this preference?
- Identify one thing you will do “differently” when dealing with the “opposite” psychological type at work on Monday.

Why? Group Pressures...

- E, S, T, and J are the cultural norms in the United States—I, N, F, and P are less preferred.
- If you feel you are close or tied between two preferences, there is probably some environmental pressure from the cultural norms.
- Something is pulling you in the direction that is opposite to the cultural norms—his or her innate preferences.

Why? (cont'd)

- Although you may think they are equal, decide whether one really describes how you usually think and act. (Be yourself!)
- Important to read and/or re-read the profiles and decide which more accurately describes how you usually think and act.

Have I Changed Type?

When people report having changed type, it is likely that they have had an incorrect administration—the “mind-setting” was not done properly, resulting in the reporting of “work type” or “ideal self.”

Lessons from Stress

When you have a stress reaction, ask yourself:

- What caused me to be out of balance?
- What beliefs may have prompted me to go out of balance?
- If I challenge those beliefs, might I become happier or more effective?
