The Value of Maintaining Your Credentials

The facilities profession is constantly changing. As a CEFP holder, it is important to keep abreast of current trends, technological advancements, best practices and methods to streamline work on campus. Recertification validates your commitment to the profession, lifelong education, and professional development.

APPA's Body of Knowledge (BOK) is the basis for the CEFP credential.

APPA's Body of Knowledge (the BOK)—is the basis for the CEFP credential. It disseminates the foundational content required by facilities professionals at colleges, universities, schools, museums, and other nonprofit, educational organizations. Four content coordinators and APPA staff oversee dozens of writers, editors, and peer reviewers as they revise, update, and enhance the APPA body of knowledge. The project is ongoing, and updated chapters are posted as soon as they are peer reviewed and approved for publication.

The Body of Knowledge is built on the foundation of the four core competency areas identified by APPA:

- General Administration and Management
- Operations and Maintenance
- Energy, Utilities, and Environmental Stewardship
- Planning, Design, and Construction

To maintain the CEFP credential, individuals are required to engage in professional development activities that directly relate to the APPA BOK.

Requirements of Recertification

CEFP holders are required to earn 120 points within a four-year cycle. All points are due four years from the month/year certification was earned, or four years from the month/year last recertified. For instance, if you certified in March 2015, your CEFP certification would expire March 2019. If you recertified in September 2013, your CEFP certification would expire September 2017.

Periodic reminders will be sent to remind you of your renewal. However, it is the individual's responsibility to make note of their recertification due date, which is provided on your CEFP certificate, and to keep APPA informed of any changes with your name, company, address, and email.

If the 120 points is not attained on or prior to your anniversary renewal date, your CEFP credential will expire immediately. APPA will remove your name from the recognition area on our website and you will not be allowed to use the CEFP designation behind your name and/or title. It will also be necessary to successfully take and pass the CEFP exam in order to attain the CEFP designation again.

Qualifying Categories

Points can be earned in four categories:

- Experience/Employment
- Education
- Leadership
- Research/Publication

It is not necessary to earn points in every category, but it is mandatory to have at least 40 of the 120 points in the category of Education. Points in Leadership and Research/Publication are optional.

Your Recertification Account

Once you earn the CEFP you will have access to your recertification account where you can record your points. Visit the Credentialing section of the APPA Website at <https://www.appa.org/certification/> and visit the recertification area after logging in. Activity entered is approved periodically so you can always see how many points are needed to renew.

Some members choose to track their hours on separate spreadsheets then transfer that information into their recertification account for approval/verification. Select the way that works best for you. Set annual goals for yourself to ensure you will be ready to renew when your four year cycle is over.

Documenting Your Activities

If your application is audited, or if additional information is needed to determine eligibility of points, you could be asked to provide supporting documentation. Recertification could be delayed or denied if your documentation does not support the activity.

Experience/Employment, the documentation should include each of the following:

1. Your full Name and Institution/Company
2. Current Job Title and Department
3. Dates of service
4. Signature of Supervisor or member of Human Resources

A few examples of acceptable documentation include:

- Resume
- Official Letterhead from School/Company
- Template from APPA (provided)

Education - documentation should include each of the following:

1. Your full name and institution/company
2. Specific dates attended
3. Length or hours earned

Depending on the activity, you may be required to supply a variety of documents to support your attendance. Please keep in mind that the more documentation you can supply the better. Some courses offered by APPA will automatically be placed on the APPA Transcript, but it is your responsibility to maintain accurate records.

A few examples of acceptable documentation include:

- Certificate of completion/attendance
- Email thanking you for participating (often sent after a webinar)
- Course program or outline
- College transcript (including APPA Transcript)
- Letter or other information from the provider

Leadership - documentation should include each of the following:

1. Your full Name and Institution/Company
2. Position held
3. Dates of service
4. Name of Committee/Region/State/Chapter served

Additionally,

Most APPA leadership positions can be verified through APPA. Approved leadership positions are those of which a person has been appointed by members serving an officer or chair position in a facilities related organization.

Research/Publication - documentation should include each of the following:

1. Your full name and institution/company
2. Date of activity
3. Specific support documentation is listed for each activity in this category.

CEU, CPE, College Credit and Other Units of Measurements

Continuing Education Unit (CEU), Continuing Professional Education (CPE), and college credit are other measurements of education that can be converted into points as follows:

- .1 CEU = 1 hour of education, or 1 point
- One CPE = 50 minutes of education or .8 points; Six CPEs = 5 hours, or 5 points
- One college credit = 10 points; a three-credit course is 30 points.

Certified Educational Facilities Professional (CEFP) Recertification Information

Frequently Asked Questions

How do I keep my CEFP credential active?

Once you earn the CEFP credential, your certification period will last four years. During these four years, you must earn a minimum of 120 points and pay a renewal fee to maintain an active status. You may also elect to renew your CEFP credential early if you have met all the requisite recertification requirements.

What is a point?

A point is a way to measure professional development activities such as experience, leadership, or research/publications as well as continuing education units for education activities. A point equates to a single contact hour and this is an element organizations use to count education and experience received through qualified instructional providers and competent supervision.

How do I earn points?

Points can be earned in four categories; Experience, Education, Leadership and Research. A member must earn a minimum of 40 hours in the education category and a total of 120 points overall. Supporting documentation must be kept to prove attendance or time spent in the category earned. Individuals must submit supporting documentation upon request if selected for a random audit or if additional information is needed to approve hours submitted.

What is my responsibility concerning the required documentation?

Individuals must maintain a personal file of activities and achievements provided in the four categories and submit this information online in your unique transcript area on the credentialing website. Each individual is responsible to maintain his/her own records of continuing education activities that are counted toward renewal credits. Each person must be prepared to submit those records to the Board upon request if required to do so.

What happens to my status if I do not renew timely?

If the 120 points are not attained on or prior to your anniversary renewal date, your CEFP credential will expire immediately and you will be moved to an INACTIVE status. APPA will remove your name from the recognition area on our website and you will not be allowed to use the CEFP designation behind your name and/or title. It will also be necessary to successfully take and pass the CEFP exam in order to attain the CEFP designation again. To register for the course contact Kelly Ostergrant at Kelly@appa.org or call 703-542-3835.

What are the requirements for those who retire?

Retired CEFP holders are not required to renew; however, each must submit a request for recertification renewal prior to the end of his or her four year cycle. APPA must receive a letter or email requesting recertification for a new four year term and verification on company letterhead with individual's name and date of retirement.
